7 CANDIDATES FOR CONGRESS ARE OPPOSED

Ten of Kentucky's 11 Congressmen Seek Re-Election.

ROBSON IS OPPOSED

Langley In Race for Re-election; Bethurum, Sackett and Stanley Seek Place in the Senate.

Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, July 16.—Ten of Kentucky's eleven congressmen are seeking re-election. Seven of them will be opposed in the state-wide primary, August 2; the general election next November or both. The others are unopposed in either the primary or election except in the seventh congressional district, where Congressman Joe W. Morris is not a candidate.

United States Senator A. Owsley Stanley of Henderson has opposition in both the primary and the election. John J. Howe of Carrollton is seeking the democratic nomination in the primary. Former Judge B. J. Bethurum of Somerset and Lexington, and Fred M. Sackett, Louisville, are candidates in the first republican senatorial primary election. The republican candidates heretofore have been nominated in convention.

Congressman Allen W. Barkley, Paducah, first district; David H. Rife of Madisonville, second district, and Ralph Gillett, Shelbyville, eighth district, are assured of re-election, there being no other candidates for the seat in the house.

Virgil Chapman, Paris, and M. A. Jones, Lexington, democrat are in the primary for congressman from the seventh district to succeed Congressman Morris. Morris was elected last year to serve the unexpired term of the late J. Campbell Cantrell.

Congressman Ben Johnson, democrat of Hardtown, has no opposition in his party for re-nomination in the fourth district but he will be opposed by Z. T. Proctor, Leitchfield, republican, in the November election. The same is true in the sixth, where Congressman Arthur B. Romer, Elmhurst, will contest with B. S. Landrum, republican, Warsaw.

More than usual interest attaches to the contest in the tenth district where the incumbent, John W. Langley, republican, Pikeville, who recently was convicted in federal court of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws and sentenced to two years in prison, is seeking re-election.

Congressman Langley was seriously ill for some time after his conviction, but has recovered and is making a preliminary campaign against E. Scott Duff, Davis; Alex. L. Ratcliff, Pikeville, and Barney W. Baker, Hazard, are candidates in the democratic primary in the tenth.

Congressman J. M. Robinson, Harboursville, faces the opponents within his party in the republican primary in the eleventh district. Walter S. Flynn, Somerset and D. M. Bingham, Pineville, also are seeking the nomination. Nat B. Sewell, democrat, London will enter the general election against the successful republican candidate.

Three republicans and one democrat in the ninth district are seeking the seat now occupied by Fred M. Vinson, democrat, Louisville. C. M. Mulek is offering for nomination in the democratic primary, while George Osborne, Russell; Trumbo Snedeger, Owensville, and Mrs. Hulda F. Ogden, Milford, are the republican candidates. Mrs. Ogden is the only woman offering for congress in the state.

The third republican incumbent, Maurice H. Thatcher, Louisville, goes to the polls in the primary against Harvey White, republican, in the fifth district, the winner to oppose either Sam H. McSteekin, or H. A. L. Rosenburg, who are entered in the democratic primary. All of the men are of Louisville.

"Colonelette" Is Latest Feminine Honor In Kentucky

FRANKFORT, July 16.—Women who have long despaired of equality with the sterner sex in the Bluegrass State because they could not attain the title of colonel may now take heart. Three women "colonelettes" perhaps it should be "coloneettes" have been added to the governor's staff.

The three to break into the honorary circle are: Mrs. William A. Perry, Louisville; Miss Ora Hazell, Frankfort, and Miss Josephine Fonville, Bowling Green. The two first named were given the rank while Senator William A. Perry was acting governor; Lieut. Gov. H. H. Denhart "coloneleted" Miss Fonville, his secretary while he was governor. The only problem which remains is to decide whether it will be "colonelet," "colonelette" or "coloneless."

Ferris of Milwaukee says is conservative. Mr. Ferris conferred yesterday with Mr. West, and is in charge of arrangements for the Wisconsin delegation.

MILLER OPENS YEARLY MEET OF LUTHERANS

Admonishes Delegates as to Lay Leadership Practices.

PRIDE IS WORST FOE

Dr. Miller Tells Assembly That Education Is the World's Hope for Advance of the Church.

Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, July 16.—There should be lay leadership not only in "serving tables" but also in "judging us to correct doctrine, correct practice, correct discipline, and correct church government," Dr. Charles A. A. J. Miller of Baltimore, told members of the Walther league, Evangelical Lutheran church assembled here today in annual convention.

Admonishing his church workers "to strengthen your battle lines," Dr. Miller said: "In these days of wild assertions of the advocates of the common people's rights, your league promotes balance, poise, and clear thinking when such questions of the day are discussed. It helps in conservative reforms wherever they are needed and it adds to the faith and the good things which fathers and forefathers fought for and stood for."

"Only indolent, inert, untrained, un-informed, lukewarm members do not long for such leadership. Therefore they unwittingly work into the hands of the church's enemies, who well know that without lay leaders the church will soon lose its priceless treasure, the open, unadulterated Bible, and be steeped either in superstition or in infidelity."

"There are those who maintain that wherever the Christian church became corrupt the fault was to be found at the door of the laymen, who had tired of leadership. Not has the church of the twentieth century any special promise that history will not repeat itself, it ceases to watch, and pray, and search."

"The world stakes its hopes and the futures of society and state upon education. Personal pride and jealousy are the greatest foes to lay leadership. All the discussions and schisms in the church are traceable to pride, and many of the troubles between laymen and laymen, clergy and clergy, and laity and clergy, have their origin in jealousy. Therefore, no church emphasis can be laid upon Christian education and growth in grace. They and they alone will keep men humble, and humility is the best antidote to pride and jealousy."

TOURIST ENJOYED SUPERB SCENERY

Memphis Writes there is No Other Place that Equals this in Beauty.

That Middleboro is pleasing to tourists and travelers who have visited much touted Nature's beauty spots all over the country is indicated by letters that drift in from time to time of those who cannot express their enthusiasm. One of these, received today, will be of interest to Middleboro people:

"Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Middleboro, Ky.

"Dear Sir:—My hat is off to Bell County, Ky., for the magnificent roads they have built for me thru the mountains around Pineville and Middleboro and thanks to them for the way they routed it.

"My and I, two old kids of near 70 years, out on an 1800 mile auto ride, just for a good time, saw nothing any where to equal your scenery.

"Unfortunately, we failed to get any pictures of it, and if not asking too much would appreciate it if you would send us some views of the mountains around Pineville, Middleboro and Cumberland Gap. Would prefer photographs or Kodak pictures. If you cannot get them post cards will be acceptable. Would like post card size, but wish three of each view sent.

"Thanking you for the favor, and assuring you again of our appreciation of courtesies shown us and our enjoyment of our visit thru your country, I am,

TRAFFIC OF TOURISTS IS INCREASING

Many Pass Daily Going Both North and South.

CAMP IS PROBABLE

Committee May Report Soon On Tourist Camp Plans—Road Signs are Also Considered.

Middleboro people are gratified at the unusual number of tourists now passing daily through the city. Observers say that these are going in both directions; some are returning from the south to northern homes and others are now going to the south for a tour.

A business man who is so located that he can observe the tourist traffic estimates that at least thirty cars are passing through town daily and the number is on the increase. Many of them, it is noticed, come on into town for business or pleasure instead of merely passing through the edge of it.

While many of these are equipped with camping outfits ranging from bedding to automobile trailers provided with tent, cooking utensils and other necessities, a good percentage of them stop at the hotels during their brief stay.

The influx of transient visitors emphasizes more than ever Middleboro's need for a tourist camp. Such a convenience would be an inducement to that great number of tourists who do not lodge at hotels.

The establishment of such a camp is being seriously considered by local men. The Kiwanis club has appointed a committee which has been working on the proposition for some time. It is thought probable that they will report on this matter at the meeting tomorrow.

Another matter of importance in the way of aiding in the tourist traffic is that of road signs which would direct the tourists through Middleboro. This matter is also being considered by the club and it is expected that provision for such road directions will be made soon.

Of course the real tourist season will not begin for a few weeks yet. In the fall they will begin to migrate south in large numbers and it is expected that more of them will come through Middleboro than heretofore in view of the fact that the entirely passable condition of the roads, through this section have received wide publicity.

Commenting on this annual tourist migration a visitor recently stated that the roads which form tributaries to the winter tourist centers are literally crowded with tourist cars in the fall and spring.

Evidence for the Commonwealth was heard after which defendants moved for a dismissal of the charges. This was denied, however, and the men were each required to make bond for $200.

The arrest of the men on charges of maintaining a public nuisance was a sequel to the outdoor dance which they operated at Noctown and which was the scene of trouble Friday night. The platform is located a few feet beyond the corporate limits of Middleboro and the case came under the jurisdiction of the magistrate's court.

USE OF PERFUME BEGAN IN ORIENT

First Used By Plants and Animals. The Custom Was Adopted by Mankind.

Perfumes are odoriferous substances used mainly by the fair sex for various purposes. Society ladies now endeavor to have special scents that express their personalities. This is especially noticeable in the case of many of the newly rich who use an odorless scent.

The original function of perfumes was for the use of plants and animals. It is still used by them to attract attention of the opposite sex, and in the case of plants, to entice insects for the purpose of fertilization. Certain plants and animals also use it to ward off possible enemies by making the atmosphere disagreeable. With humans some of the same results are often accomplished, although quite often they succeed in warding off possible friends as well as enemies.

Natural perfumes consist of distinct chemical substances which are sufficiently volatile to permeate the air, and thus reach the organs of smell. These materials are usually of the nature of resins, gums, balsams or oils. They occur in various locations in the plant or animal, especially in the blossoms and leaves of plants, and in certain glands of animals.

The use of perfumes seems to have originated in the Far Eastern countries, later creeping westward into Egypt, Italy, France, etc. Cleopatra was very fond of using them, and it is probable that much of attraction was due to this fact, although it is scarcely fair to her to speak thus in her absence.

Perfumes were greatly prized by the early kings and other wealthy personages. They were very high in price, and hence great luxuries. Today parlor maids and shop girls bathe themselves in perfume and still have money left for the movies.

Most of our natural perfumes are extracted from blossoms grown in Turkey, Bulgaria, Sicily and France. They, however, have now a strong rival in synthetic perfumes. These are made by chemists and are used either alone or mixed with the natural ones. Strange to say, coal tar, which is a black evil-smelling material obtained by distillation of coal, furnishes much of the materials from which synthetic perfumes are made.

It tells the story of an English noblewoman who is disguised as a man, fights the cause of "Ponjola," the soul destroying drink of the gold miners; rights for the man she loves and willingly offers to sacrifice herself for the man by standing trial for a murder which the man commits.

In the role of "Desmond," the girl Anna Q. Nilsson, will be seen in a part which critics declare is the greatest role of her whole stage or screen career. James Kirkwood enacts the part of the man.

Other popular screen favorites in the picture are Tully Marshall, Ruth Clifford, Joseph Kilgour, Claire Du Roy, Claire McDowell and Bernard Randall.

BARN CONVERTED INTO MONUMENT

Old German Chapel, Formerly a Barn, Made Into a Monument for Soldiers.

By Associated Press.

MUNICH, Germany, July 15.—First a chapel, then a sheep barn, and now a soldiers' monument, such is the fortune of an ancient structure in the little town of Dinkelbuehl, northern Bavaria.

In 1371, the then free imperial city of Dinkelbuehl erected a Gothic chapel for divine worship. But while the town has carefully preserved its medieval walls and other ancient buildings, it allowed the chapel to deteriorate. The flocks of faithful worshippers gave place to flocks of sheep.

After the world war the burghers of Dinkelbuehl cast about for a fitting memorial to the heroes of the community who had fallen on the field of battle. Then someone remembered the dilapidated chapelbarn. It was cleaned, re-novated, and its interior converted into a memorial hall. A tablet on one of the walls bears the names of the victims of the war.

Seventy Per Cent of Nation's Crime Committed by Youth

We talk of community problems and recreation for young and old, as if to find at last that the crux of the whole matter is the human element. Nature gives cities opportunities but only the aspiration, intelligence and conservation of men can make them great. In the self-giving and devoted manhood and womanhood of Middlesboro lies the certain and only pledge of future greatness. No matter what the need, no matter what may lack, its one great, crying, insistent and persistent need for development along all right lines and in all departments of its life is men and women who, through associated effort, will give something of their interest, time, strength and money to make it great in all modern municipal government, conveniences and comforts, and in all that contributes to human progress, happiness and security.

Because the people are at last determined to carry their own responsibilities and guide their own destinies, and because they have earned of the miracles that may be wrought through the organized persistence of social groups, they are everywhere getting together and working together in organization that are multiplying at an astonishing rate. Today the individual, who play force counted for so much, not so much as he used to be.

What have the strongest of these groups long since learned? They have discovered that there are only main elements in city growth: the opportunities it offers to make money and the advantages it offers as a place of residence. And survey after survey and the experience of hundreds of cities long ago demonstrated that good schools and churches and ample play and recreation facilities for young and old lead in determining the advantages of any city as a place of residence.

The March number of "The Nation's Business," the official publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America, contains an illuminating article entitled, "Your Playground a Business Asset." It clearly points out the relation of recreation to community growth. Business men, Chambers of Commerce, civic bodies of every description, are beginning to understand that it pays from every point of view to provide community play and recreation. Commercial bodies are featuring in their public the advantages offered by their cities in this direction. In their advertisements in magazines, cities are putting the advantages they offer for play and recreation in the foreground. The movement is sweeping the nation, and the time is not far distant when it will be as difficult to rent or sell a house in a city without ample play

Why is play so important, and why do men today demand recreation? Play is the child's real life, nature's method of making men and women of character and strength. What the child misses in physical, mental, moral and social development in play in his tender years is forever missed. The chance once gone never comes again. Sixty percent of the boys and girls of the country are physically deficient chiefly for want of adequate play and intelligent direction. Seventy percent of the crime of the nation is committed by boys and girls under the voting age, children in law and fact, who go wrong not because they are criminally inclined, but because their God-given love of activity and adventure are misdirected. Juvenile delinquency statistics warrant the statement that the play center is the best preventative of delinquency known. They also disclose the fact that delinquency increases as the distance from the play center increases, and cities everywhere have lessened such crime from twenty-five to eighty percent by the play movement.

The training inn cooperation and teamwork of the supervised play center cannot be equalled anywhere else. In the group games in which he learns to subordinate self to the larger whole, the child acquires the habit of conduct without which democracy cannot exist. Life is today a great cooperative game, and democracy and teamwork are inseparable. This cannot be effectively learned from books. The only largely effective way to curb the fierce individualism of youth is through contacts with others in team and group games during the character-forming period of life, in which from within the child is developed into the kind of adults who from choice live for the larger social whole, the community, the nation.

And recreation centers afford opportunities for play and recreation that adults are sorely in need of in this machine age. The all-round physical activity of the worker of yesterday is not possible in the specialized factory activities of today. Instead of the out-of-doors life and work of the builders of America, people are today largely confined to offices, stores, and all sorts of monotonous indoor tasks. And deaths caused by degenerative diseases are increasing at an appalling rate. The all-round physical development of the worker of yesterday is not possible in the modern factory, and the major muscles of the office worker are not being developed as nature intended. On all sides there is need of organized provision for adult recreation for the factory worker, the miner, for the office man, for the clerk, for the millions whose tasks no longer take them out of doors, or develop the larger

BRITISH ARE COMPELLED TO SELL RELICS

Hard Times Bringing Them to Auction Rooms

PICTURES INCLUDED

Mansions in States of Dilapidation Because the Owners Cannot Afford Needed Repairs.

Associated Press.
LONDON, July 15.—Sir Rider Haggard writes to The Times deploring that the roofs of old English country mansions are rotting and falling in because the owners cannot afford to keep them up and there is no one to buy them, and that with them disappears the old English country life of which they were the center. The contents of these old houses are pouring onto the market as they have never done before, and popular belief is that most of these valuables are bought in by London art dealers for their American customers.

Even some of the old families which are known to be immensely rich, according to English values, are taking advantage of the high tide of art prices. For example, for sale soon at the famous Christie auction rooms is a group of old masters of world reputation, put up by the Duke of Westminster, which includes three pictures by Rubens forming part of a series said to have been painted by order of Philip IV to decorate a Carmelite convent, also a Virgin and Child by Van Dyke.

Other lots offered at Christie's which combine the value of patrician associations with art, are: "Old English Furniture and Needlework" the property of Her Grace the Duchess of Wellington; and carved oak furniture "The Property of His Grace the Duke of Marlborough and removed from a farmhouse on the Blenheim Estate."

Also porcelain belonging to the Right Hon. Earl Howe, G. C. V. O.; the Sussex heirlooms from Keele Hall, Staffordshire, which have a romantic flavor and consists mostly of old silver, furniture and porcelains; a valuable collection of pictures left by the late Earl of Hardwicke; furniture belonging to the Earl of Sandwich; and a few old masters put up by the Right Hon. the Earl of Clarendon, P. C., G. C. B., G. C. V. O.

Among the offerings at Sotheby's within the next month are valuable pictures the property of Lady Edward Grosvenor, Sir John Lubbock, and other articles belonging to the Countess of Gosford and Countess of Stafford.

It is many years since any of the Duke of Westminster's collection of old masters have appeared in the auction rooms, although some star picture has occasionally been sold by a private bargain, and treasures from Blenheim have rarely been obtained in the lifetime of the present Duke of Marlborough.

Tell belief that nearly everything sold goes to America is not entirely true. The good old reliable, but uninspired British landscape artists of two years ago, whose works harmonized perfectly with the old country houses, are enjoying a boom in prices such as they have never before been honored with. The majority of them are practically unknown in America, and are not in demand there, yet the swiftness with which $2,000 or $3,000 are bid for pictures that went begging on the painters' hands, shows that there is yet money in England for art.

Stolen Loot Found Concealed on Farms

Associated Press.
DUBLIN, July 16.—The Free State, civic guards have raided a number of farmhouses in County Longford and discovered in them many articles of antique silverware bearing the crest of the Mackey-Wilson family. They were looted from Carrigraue which was destroyed by fire. This was the home of Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, the British army chief of staff in the European war, who was assassinated on his door step in London.

For these, and many other reasons, cities are establishing play and recreation centers for young and old, and such cities are the ones growing most rapidly, for few people will live in these days, if they can move elsewhere, in cities which offer little but commercialized amusement when the day's work is done. And industrial promoters turn more and more to the smaller cities rather than to the great congested factory centers, as the most desirable locations from the manufacturer's point of view. But their inquiry is, "What is the spirit of the people; what does the city offer to make life pleasant and profitable during the leisure time of the people?" Many a city has lost a great industry because it could not give a satisfactory answer to this question.

"Punch In Eye" Results In Expulsion From Club

WASHINGTON, July 16.—Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, Democrat floor leader of the Senate and a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination at the recent convention in New York, was expelled yesterday from the exclusive Chevy Chase Country Club because of his attack on Dr. James F. Mitchell, noted surgeon of this city, a few weeks ago. The action of the Board of Governors of the club, which twice had postponed action on the case at Senator Robinson's request, was unanimous. It is said to be the first time in the history of the club's oldest members that such drastic action has been taken.

Beyond the brief statement that the Senator had been expelled the governors would not discuss the case. It is understood, however, that their decision was influenced largely by the fact that the Senator made no effort to apologize or to excuse his act, but attempted to justify it. He did not appear in person before the board but presented a lengthy statement of the facts as he saw them. Statements of fact were presented also by Senators Wesley L. Jones, of Washington, Thomas J. Walsh, Montana, and John B. Kendrick, Wyoming, who with these senators made no comment other than a statement of facts.

Senator Robinson has been under suspension and forbidden the privileges of the club since the board first began its consideration of the case three weeks ago. His absence from the city as a participant in the democratic National convention had prompted the postponement of final action until today.

The encounter between Senator Robinson and Dr. Mitchell occurred when the former and his three colleagues were playing a golf foursome. Dr. Mitchell, Colonel Edward Clifford and the latter's son, formed a three-some. Words were passed as the players approached the twelfth hole. The Senators, according to the version of the other players, were having difficulty with their game, and were progressing slowly. They were looking for lost balls as the threesome approached. One of Dr. Mitchell's party is said to have called to the senatorial party to inquire if it were a case of "lost balls" in which even, under the rules of golf etiquette they could go ahead. At first they received no reply, but their persistence finally brought a signal from one of the senators, waving them through.

As the surgeon's party passed the senators one of them expressed the hope that no inconvenience had been caused. Senator Robinson is quoted as having replied:

"Well, you have been very rude." The two parties came to the thirteenth tee together and Colonel Clifford, recognizing an acquaintance of Senator Kendrick, is said to have attempted to explain their position in desiring to go ahead of the senators with their game.

It is said that golf etiquette and courtesy came in for discussion. Senator Robinson at this point is said to have come running up shouting "That's enough of this; let it drop, let it drop." Dr. Mitchell protested and the Arkansas Senator responded with a blow in the eye, which staggered the surgeon. The latter, however, prepared to show fight and Senator Robinson is said to have followed up his attack. They were separated by Senator Walsh and Colonel Clifford. Following the affair, Senator Robinson declared that he regretted it exceedingly.

It was reported tonight that Senator Walsh is preparing a statement exonerating his colleague and announcing his intention to resign from the club unless the action of the board of governors is rescinded. This, however, could not be verified.

PRAGUE STATION FOR AIR ROUTES

Movement to Make it European Air Junction is Gaining in Popularity.

By Associated Press.

PRAGUE, July 15.—The Third International Aircraft Exhibition, recently concluded here, served to emphasize the effort of the Czechoslovak government to make this city a center of European air travel on both the north-south and east-west routes, already in operation or contemplated. English, French and German firms were among the 88 exhibitors. Mr. Srb, the minister of public works, in an address at the opening, said that the movement to make Prague the junction for European air routes was gaining ground and it was now only a question of the conclusion of suitable treaties between the various states relating to aerial communications and commerce.

A new route between Brunn and Marisch-Ostrau is soon to be established and a great airdrome is to be built in the latter city, which in addition to its peace functions, is designed as a base for military air operations in event of war.

Big Game Hunting Is Expensive In Alaska

By Associated Press.

CORDOVA, Alaska, July 16.—Hunting trips in Alaska by non-residents of the Territory cost from $400 to $7,100, according to Ernest P. Walker, head of the Biological Survey.

The society was against the expulsion of Senator Joseph T. Robinson, democratic leader of the senate from the exclusive Chevy Chase Country club. The action unprecedented in the club's history, followed a fight on its golf course during which the senator floor-ed Dr. James F. Mitchell, noted surgeon, with a punch in the eye. Robinson contended the surgeon had "grassily insulted" him.

vey for Alaska, who has received answers from questionnaires sent 44 outside sportsmen making a total of 52 trips.

"The total amount spent for the fifty-two hunting trips was $107,587.50," stated Mr. Walker. "Of this, $5,000 was for licenses and export fees, and the remainder for guides, outfits, transportation, curios and incidentals. The average trip cost $2,069. Three hundred and twelve game animals were taken at an average cost of $328.79 per animal. The least expensive trip cost $400 and the highest was $7,100. Scientific explorations and photographic expeditions were not included in the returns."

PRAYING, SINGING NOT SUFFICIENT

Birmingham is "Pagan City," Minister Declares—Urges Active Christianity.

Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., July 16.—The moral status of Birmingham, one of the foremost of the manufacturing towns of Great Britain, was severely attacked by the Rev. T. Edmunds in an address at the opening session of the conference of the West Midlands Baptist Association here.

"Birmingham," the speaker said, "is a pagan city with idleness, ignorance, drunkenness, squalor, violence in its midst which create a desperate need for social service. If the Christian church is to be of real beneficent service," he argued, "we will have to do more than sing, pray, preach and teach."

Rev. J. Leslie Brown, of Wolverhampton, declared at the conference, that he was "bored stiff" with preaching. What was the good of preaching when present conditions existed, he asked. He said that he believed that many of the church leaders were on the wrong lines, and asked if they had any idea of what they were talking about and doing at.

BERLIN, July 16.—On the theory that "all that glitters is not gold," a new city ordinance makes it a misdemeanor for merchants to mis-label goods displayed in their shop windows. # RECREATION SURVEY

With its elevation above sea level and climate conditions, its surpassing loveliness of mountain and valley scenery, its historic traditions, and associations, Middlesboro should be a resort and tourist center. The far-famed resorts of Virginia, North Carolina, and other neighboring states, have no natural advantages, enjoyed by this favored region, and many of them cannot match those of Middlesboro. But what have they that Middlesboro lacks? Recreational opportunities. They long since learned that the tourist demands recreation, and they have provided all sorts of facilities for their enjoyment. Middlesboro must do the same. It is doubtful if any city has a more attractively located golf course, but what else has Middlesboro to offer the tourist within her gates, to tempt him to prolong his visit, or to attract millions who are wending their way to other mountain resorts?

do Huntington, Bluefield and Morgantown, West Virginia, and Louisville, Paducah, Kentucky, and other cities include large sums in their budgets for recreation and supervised play. In 1923 cities last year spent $1,000,000 on play and recreation. Why? Because it pays, pays in cents, pays in advance of social security and progress, pays in the saving of child and juvenile delinquency, in the saving of hospital, asylum, and reformatory costs more than balance the cost of such recreation facilities.

few cities that have no public park, open all the time to all the people. This is a serious deficiency, and the need should be met at the earliest possible moment. Now is the time to act, for each year will witness an increase in real estate values, and land now available may be developed any day.

B. Public.
Schools' available play space, 8,000 acres.

According to government statistics, there should be one acre of land and water for recreational activities for every one hundred individuals.

Middlesboro should have 100 acres of available play space.

Middlesboro has less than nine acres of available play space.

Special Center.—7 schoolhouses, not used; 9 church, occasional; 1 Salvation Army, occasional; 1 bathing pool, not properly safeguarded.

Public Library.—Fine building. Open only 33 hours weekly. No morning hours. Should be open more hours daily.

Physical and Human Assets. Available for Use:

None of the school buildings are being used as social centers. The school grounds, five of them, are adequate for play centers, but only one has any apparatus. The East End school, situated on a mountain side, has practically no play space. If a playground is located in that section, it will be necessary to rent a piece of land, or perhaps public spirited owners will donate use of ground.

In a word, Middlesboro has enough play space around its schools to establish playgrounds, or land is available nearby, which may be had for a nominal rental fee.

Middlesboro has its quota of churches, lodges, etc., all of which would properly cooperate with a Recreation Superintendent in organizing, and maintaining recreation for their members, and give every public recreation movement their full support.

Middlesboro also has its quota of men and women who the Recreation Superintendent could train for service. These people would serve the organization with which they are directly connected, and act as helpers when some public movement like a holiday celebration was undertaken.
